ROBS BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM

Hotel Chambermaid Spoils a Young Couple's Honeymoon.

Roll of Money Under Pillow Disappears While Sights in Streets Are Being Viewed.

"The course of true love never runs smooth" is an old proverb, but it never meant much to Julian H. Henry, an employee of the Seaboard Air Line, until yesterday. It then came with a shock. Henry was married a few days ago in his home town, Savannah, Ga. He and his pretty young bride came to Washington on their honeymoon. They stopped at the Howard House. Yesterday morning they were looking out the window, watching the sights of Pennsylvania avenue, very happy. While they were looking out the window, a maid was cleaning the room. She started to make the bed, and then suddenly left the room. When she did not return, the couple began to think. "The bank roll!" cried the startled husband. The money had been under the pillow. They looked. It was gone. They called for the maid and notified the clerk.

"DEAD" MAN GETS WIFE'S $30

Now Carmody Is Held for Using Wholly Original Ruse.

Telephone and Lively Imagination Said to Have Brought Him Money to Ship His Body Home.

"Jack" Brown, alias John P. Carmody, arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, is held by police of the First precinct. He probably will be arraigned in the Police Court this morning. Carmody's case is unique in police annals. He is alleged to have obtained $30 from his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Carmody, of 541 East First street, South Boston, Mass., by representing himself to be dead. He is alleged to have told her that he was a friend of her husband's and wanted the money to bury himself. Carmody is alleged to have deserted his wife and four small children in Boston some weeks ago. He came to Washington and obtained work and lodgings from Charles N. Underwood, a tinner, 73 H street northwest. During the absence of Underwood, Carmody called up his wife

WILLIAM O'MARA A SUICIDE

Aged Man Shoots Himself Because of Poor Health.

Act Unexpected by His Relatives. Son-in-law Killed Himself Several Years Ago.

Continued ill health is the reason ascribed for the suicide yesterday morning of William O'Mara, a retired hardware merchant. O'Mara shot himself through the heart with an old-fashioned "pepper-box" revolver in the hallway of his home, 27 B street northwest. John Cox, son-in-law of the dead man, found the body in a darkened hallway connecting the kitchen and parlor. He lay face downward and the gun beneath him. Three barrels were still loaded. Policeman Scriven, of the Sixth precinct, standing near the corner of Third and B streets, heard the shot fired. He hurried to the O'Mara residence. The aged man was then dead. Coroner Nevitt gave a certificate of death by suicide, after examining a number of witnesses and viewing the body. O'Mara was seventy-eight years old. For some time he had been suffering from insomnia and valvular heart trouble. Thursday night he was apparently in good spirits, and set up with his wife and daughter, Mrs. J. C. Cox, and her husband until a late hour. He arose and went down stairs at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and shortly afterward his daughter and son-in-law heard the shot. Mrs. O'Mara could not hear the shot, because of deafness, and was told that her husband had died of heart failure. The dead man was a native of Nana, Tipperary County, Ireland. He came to this country when nine years old and to Washington seven years later. He engaged in several business enterprises, and finally started in business as a hardware merchant at Second street and Pennsylvania avenue. He married Miss Sarah Unsworth. A few years later O'Mara moved his store to Pennsylvania avenue, near Fourteenth street. The dead man is survived by his wife and three children—John W., Miss Clara O'Mara, and Mrs. J. C. Cox. The late Daniel E. Cahill, who committed suicide several years ago, was a son-in-law of the deceased. Mr. O'Mara was a member of the Oldest Inhabitants' Association and of several other organizations. The funeral will be held from the family residence Monday afternoon. Interment will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Must Test Devices.

The block signal and train control board of the Interstate Commerce Commission, for whose tests and experiments Congress appropriated the sum of $50,000, at its meeting yesterday definitely decided that all devices to be hereafter tested must be designed on the closed-circuit principle. Otherwise they will not be tested.
